

Dear Commissioners,

I'm writing to strongly urge you to uphold and respect the wishes of taxpayers who have strived to establish no-call list laws within their states as well as nationally. We face myriad means of advertising in society from everpresent billboards, an abundance of radio and television advertising, ads throughout printed media and handfuls of mail solicitations every day. This has gone beyond marketing to the level of an assault on the senses. Please respect the privacy of an individual's home and allow consumer requested laws preventing unrequested telephone solicitation to stand.

Sincerely,
James Schey
Madison, Wisconsin
